Missing Four-Year-Old Child Found in Chattanooga Home With 'Hitch-Hiker Captor.'

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 18.

(P)—Missing from his home in Lerington, Ky., since Thursday night, four-year-old Jackie Gibbons was found here today in company of a young woman, who told police officers that the boy followed her away and that she "became afraid" and let him accompany her. A kidnaping charge was placed against her.

The woman gave the name of Bernice Lou Givens, 18, and said she had lived in Cincinnati.

Freight Movement.-Total car load

Freight Movement.—Total car loadings as reported for the week ended November 10 crossed the 1933 corresponding level for the first time since the first week of July. Freight movement normally recedes at this season, and the total of 594,8932 cars was off 2.9 per cent from the preceding week, but according to Moody's index, this recession was less than usual for this period. The total was 2 per cent over a year ago and nearly 11 per cent over two years ago, but still well under 1931.

"An important thing in handling young children," she said, "is to prevent timidity or fear if possible. It is very easy to frighten a child into deceit. We must realize that often we seem very much more terrifying because of our size and strength, and that even a raised voice to the tender ears of a child may be a very menacing and terrifying thing. This sense of fear is one of the worst things that can happen to any child, and here the home and the school are equally responsible."

In his first post-election speech, over a NBC radio chain, the demoeratic national committee chairman promised, too, that the new congress dominated by his party would live up to it responsibilities.

He brought into the open the fears some democratic leaders have had that minorities might succeed in obtaining enough pre-congress promises from representatives to cause difficulties, for he said:

"Already the newly-elected congressmen are being solicited to sign pledges, more or less vague, which would en-able these organizations to claim them as adherents and so make a showing of strength before or at the coming

They went to the small home of Harvey and the woman asked if he could provide a bed for herself and "brother." The accommodations were arranged.

This morning the boy told Harvey this name was Jackie Gibbons and a little while later Harvey, in reading the Chattanooga Times, saw a story about the missing Lexington boy. He told his wife and they notified police. The woman registered as Bernice Lou Givens told the officers that she had found a warm place for the boy to stay every night and that "he had everything he wanted." Little Jackie agreed, saying she had been "good" to him throughout their travels.

News Behind the News

CO-ORDINATING WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 .- Co-ordinator Richberg has a book on his desk about two inches high. It lists the things he must co-ordinate within the New Deal. How he got everything into one book is something he will have to explain. It must be only the first volume.

At any rate, he locked the door the other day, pulled down the shade and started in co-ordinating. He must have started at the back of the book, for the first thing selected was one which looked easy-the re-establishment of brotherly love between the

Those two outfits have been having it hot and heavy on the inside about steel statistics. The trade commission has been demanding inside facts and figures from the Iron and Steel Institute. The commission needs the data in its study of the basing point system of fixing steel prices. But the Iron and Steel Institute is under the NRA. It privately obtained the protection of the NRA in denying the data to the FTC, leaving the two government bureaus to WHISPERING Mr. Richberg took his sharpest pen in hand and wrote to the FTC. He said in effect he thought the commission should desist, that the steel people would use the case to worm out of its NRA code and implied that the FTC was going outside its field. He admitted that he had no jurisdiction over the FTC because it is an independent commission. Also he added a sentence suggesting that no talking be done about the

Of course, there has been no talking, except by a few hundred people, and then only in stage whispers, which will be heard around

Also, the commission has decided to stand pat on its demands, which leaves matters just where they were before Mr. Richberg

That will give you a slight idea of what this co-ordinating job is like and how much fun it is going to be when Mr. Richberg gets around to some of the hard cases. Before it is over, Mr. Richberg will use his pen for jabbing instead of writing and then the campaign to mold the far-flung New Deal into a harmonious unit will undoubtedly become a question of the survival of the fittest.

TUGWELL The mystery of what is going to happen to Professor Tugwell has not yet been decided by the New Deal mystery settlers.

The way things are going now, he may become a big liaison man between George Peek and Agriculture Secretary Wallace for the colossal, if not impossible, task of promoting foreign agricultural markets. Such adroit dispositions of difficult cases have been accomplished before in the New Deal.

BEARING DOWN Having tried everything else on the Japanese, without success, the United States diplomats are now turning Navy Secretary Swanson loose on them. The program started when an anonymous American voice was heard in the press dispatches from London recently, shouting that we would outbuild the Japanese if they ditched existing naval treaties. The cloak of anonymity was rather thin, as nearly everyone recognized Admiral William Standley. At least the Japanese did. Mr. Swanson almost immediately suggested that the navy might send the Macon out to Hawaii to determine its "war qualities."

Then Swanson made announcements indicating we could outbuild Japan's navy by 50 per cent; contemplating improvements at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, permitting easy "ingress and egress of warships;" concerning contracts for three new aircraft hangars at Hawaii and threatening construction of a new 21 million-cubic-foot dirigible.

There is nothing subtle about Mr. Swanson.

AMBITIONS The politicians around here have heard some wild tales about the ambitions of Upton Sinclair. They wish they knew whether the reports were true. Their dope is that Sinclair has dropped the California gubernatorial plaything and is planning a presidential campaign for 1936. They say he did not care to be governor of California and was only writing another book when he published: "I. Governor of Califor-For that reason they believe he will not push his promised recall campaign against Governor Merriam, but will devote himself to more serious business.

Huey Long's tactics lately also tell them better than a formal announcement from Huey would that the Louisiana emperor has similar ambitions.

As between Sinclair and Huey, everyone in the know would bet on Huey. He will "raise" Sinclair out of the race if he follows his usual strategy. Every time Sinclair offers to give every man, woman and child in the country $100 or $200, Huey will up him $50. You cannot compete with Huey at poker or demagoguery.

NOTES When someone asked Democratic Publicity Master Michelson if he planned a two-year vacation now that the election was over, Michelson replied: "I would, but Jouett Shouse (head of the American Liberty League) won't let me.'

The saddest place in town for a republican is the senate chamber, where the little group of 27 seats on the republican side tells the story of the last election better than anything else. There is enough space left for the republicans to start a carpet golf course, and they might as well.

No Creature Demands a Bribe Not To Molest the Cubs of the She Wolf

-By Robert Quillen-In northern Asia there are fierce, hawk-like birds that kill sheep. The killing is not intentional. It is merely incidental to the business of obtaining kidneys. The birds alight on the sheep's back, rip wool and flesh from its flanks, and tear out the kidneys before their tortured victims fall.

The sheep offer no resistance. They merely bleat and run and fall and wait for the mercy of death. They are much larger than the birds, and they are strong and agile If they had the heart for it, they could rear and strike with their forefeet to beat off an attack. They are sacrificed by their own helpless

Men feel a mingled contempt and pity for such creatures, but men themselves behave like sheep when they are softened by love of security The history of the race is the story of hardy tribes, tempered by adversity, that prospered and grew soft and fat and then became easy prey to fierce and hungry marauders.

Always the soft ones bleat in helpless terror when the hawk-like invaders appear, and always they give their treasured possessions to save their fat skins. To love possessions and life more than pride and honor is to invite plundering by fearless and heartless rogues. Prosperous Americans are paying tribute now to blackmailers, kidnapers, swindlers and extortioners.

They pay and pay and live in a nightmare of shameful terror—as easily plucked as so many fat geese-solely for want of the manhood

Can you imagine racketeers, however hardbitten, so easily collecting tribute from America's first settlers? Or the pioneers that cleared the forests? Or the frontiersmen that carried the law in a holster? Is all of the old spirit gone? Do men no longer value freedom and self-respect more than life? only the meekness of the sheep that makes possible the easy triumph of the hawk.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Touching News NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—One From Hauptmann. of the sadded is that of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the German carpenter who is de-tained against his will as a suspect in the Lindbergh murder case. At first, your correspondent was inclined to suspect that the unfortunate prisoner might have some knowledge of the crime. But then Hauptmann dismissed his original counsel and hired Mr. Eddie Reilly, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Reilly is slowly breaking your correspondent's heart. Hauptman happened to have $14,-000 of the identical money which was paid ransom for the Lindbergh baby but it was just some money which had been entrusted to his keeping by a notoriously penniless friend of his who is now dead. Any fair-minded person can understand how that might happen. Almost everyone, at some time or other in the course of an average lifetime, is approached by a pen-niless friend and asked to take charge of $14,000 and mind it for him.

Some people would refuse to Big Hearted would refuse to go to that much trouble for a friend and tell him, instead, to mind his $14,000 himself. But Hauptmann, his $14,000 himself. But Hauptmann, as Mr. Reilly is beginning to impress upon the public mind in the gradual development of the saddest story ever told, was not a selfish friend. He was big-hearted. He was so big-hearted that he once tried to lend $7,000 of his own money to the penniless friend who asked him to mind the $14,000. He felt that sorry for his penniless friend with the $14,000.

That is all there is to the affair of the $14,000 of the identical ransom money which was discovered in Hauptmann's garage, unless you wish to quibble about the separate cache of $800 in ransom bills which were rolled up and inserted into augur holes on the blind side of a beam.

If you should take this cynical at-

If you should take this cynical attitude, that peculiarity, too, can be explained in a manner which will allay suspicion and convert any fair person to Hauptmann's side of the prob son to Hauptmann's side of the prob-lem. Hauptmann was a carpenter and he was out of work. But once a car-penter, always a carpenter. So he bored holes for something to (b) in his idleness and it was only a ma-licious chance which caused him to select the blind side of a beam up near the roof of his garage as the site of his boring. It would have been more convenient to work on a length of beam in a vice on his bench but Hauptmann was no lazy carpenter. Hauptmann was no lazy carpenter. He liked to do things the hard way.

Roll of $800 As your correspond-

Merely Filler. mann's reasoning, he inserted the $800 merely as filler. Some carpenters, wishing to plug unnecessary holes in a wooden beam would hammer round pegs into the holes and plane the ends off flush. But Hauptmann had just one acceptainty. just one eccentricity. He always fill-ed augur holes with $800, preferably of ransom money entrusted to his care by a destitute man.

That is practically all there is to the case. It all explains away so simply that your correspondent feels a sense of guilt for having thought that Hauptmann might have had a hand in the kidnaping and murder.

Mr. Eddie Reilly's sad stories always make good believing.

Not Murder,
Just Killing.

Once he explained away a case in which a lady named Miss Olivia Stone, of Cincinnati, waylaid a man named Ellis Kinkead on a Brooklyn street and shot him dead. Mr. Reilly did not deny that Miss Stone shot Kinead dead. He merely insisted that it wasn't murder because, in the first place, Miss Stone loved Mr. Kinkead very much indeed, and, moreover, didn't much indeed, and, moreover, didn't eel well at the time.

Between sessions of court, in the blace across the street, Mr. Reilly would gather with the ladies and gen tlemen of the press to relax and bandy witty remarks. It was a diffi-cult case because Miss Stone ran into considerable heft and wasn't blonde. HUMAN LIFE. And it would have been as much as her life was worth to cross her knees and give the jury a squint at her wide, solid calves. In the place across the street, Mr. Reilly would blink his eyes and refer to her as "that poor little girl" and everybody would laugh, including him.

Jury Overcome He persisently impressed the jury impressed the jury which Miss Stone bore Mr. Kinkead and overlooked no chance to tell the 12 good men and true how terrible she was feeling that day. Miss Stone was nuts about that man and she felt just awful. Every bone in her body ached and every hair on her head pained separately. The jurors sobbed and decided that it served Mr. Kinkead right.

You have to steel yourself against Mr. Reilly's great, humane sympathy for the misunderstood.

of the misunderstood,

Miss Stone, on the admitted facts of the case, had a strong appearance of guilt but went home to Cincinnati absolved of all blame.

Mr. Reilly, in the place across the treet, laughed and picked up the check for the refreshments.

FAIR ENOUGH Roosevelt Speaks Twice In Swing Through South

TUPELO, Miss., Nov. 18.—(AP)—1 Following is a stenographic report of President Roosevelt's address here this afternoon:

Senator Harrison, Governor Connor, Mr. Mayor, my friends:
I would not make a speech to you today because we are assembled on this glorious Sunday morning more as neighbors than as anything else.
I have had a very wonderful three I have had a very wonderful three days and everywhere that I have gone, the good people have come as neighbors to talk with me, and they have not come by the thousands—they have come literally by the This is the first time in my life

This is the first time in my life that I have had the privilege of seeing this section of the state of Mississippi. Many, many years ago, when Pat Harrison and I were almost boys, I got acquainted with his stamping ground down on the gulf. Today I am especially glad to come into the northern part of the state.

Two years ago, in 1932, during the campaign, and again in January, 1933, I came through Kentucky—through the Tennessee valley—and what I saw on those trips—what I what I saw on those trips—what I saw of human beings, made the tears come to my eyes. The great outstanding thing to me for these past three days has been the change in the looks of people's faces.

NOT ENTIRELY PHYSICAL CHANGE.

It has not been only a physical thing. It has not been the contrast between what was actually a scarcity of raiment two years ago or a lack of food two years ago—the contrast between that and beter clothing and more food today—but it is a something in people's faces and I think you understand what I mean. There wasn't much hope in those days. People were wondering what was gobetween what was actually a scarcity ing to come to this country. And yet today I see not only hope but I see determination—knowledge that see determination and that all is well with the country and that

I suppose that you good people know a great deal more of the efforts that we have been making in regard to the work of the Tennessee Valley Authority than I do because you have seen its application in your own counties and your own towns and your own homes and, therefore, of PEOPLE NEEDED. it will be like carrying coals to Newcastle for me to tell you about what has been done. But perhaps in referring to it I can use you as a text—a text that may be useful to many other parts of the nation, because people's eyes are upon you and because what you are doing here is going to be copied in every state of the Union before we get through. OPPOSITION

SLOWLY FADING.

We recognize that there will be certain amount of—what shall I say?
—rugged opposition to this development, but I think we recognize also that the opposition is fading as the weeks and the months go by, fading in the light of practical experience.

I cite certain figures for the bene-fit of the gentlemen of the press, who have come hither from many climes. I am told that from March of this year, when you started using TVA power, the consumption of power for residential purposes has risen from 41,000 kilowatts to 89,000 kilowatts -an increase of 126 per cent. I understand that from the financial point of view, in spite of various fairy tales that have been spread in other parts of the country, your other parts of the country, your power system is still paying taxes to the municipality. That is worth re-membering. Furthermore, that as a whole it is a remarkable business

I talk about those figures first because it has been so often wrongly alleged that this yardstick which we are using could not be applied to private business and because a govfavors, that it is let off from paying this and paying that and paying the other thing. Well, we are proving it in this Tennessee valley that by using good business methods we can instruct a good many businessmen in the country.

Electric cookstoves and all the other dozens of things which, when I was in the navy, we used to call "gadgets"—we are making it possible, all of us working together, to improve human life through the introduction of things that aren't especially new so far as invention is concerned, but things which are becoming more and more which are becoming more which are when they reach retirement age —60 for women and 65 for men. COMMUNITIES ARE

AIDING SELVES. And I have been interested this morning in seeing these new homesteads—not just the buildings, not just the land that they are on, not just the areallest landscare. just the excellent landscaping of the trees among which those homes have been set, but especially the tunities that those homes are giving families to improve the standard of living.

And finally, my friends, there is one thing about all that you are doing here in Tupelo, that they are doing in Corinth, that they are doing in Athens, and Norris and the various other places where accomplishments can be seen today—aye, the most important thing of all I think is that it is being done by the communities themselves. This is not coming from Washington—it is coming from Washington—it is coming federalized. We still believe in the community, and things are going to advance in this country exactly in proportion to the community effort. This is not regimentation—it is community rugged individualism. It means no longer the kind of rugged individualism that allows an individual to do this, that or the other thing that will kurt his neighbors. means no longer the kind of rugged individualism that allows an individual to do this, that or the other thing that will lurt his neighbors. But he is going to be encouraged in every known way from the national capitol and the state capitol and the county seat to use that individualism in co-operation with his neighualism in co-operation with his neigh-bors' individualism so that he and his neighbors may improve their lot in life.

PRESIDENT THRILLED BY SCENES IN SOUTH.

BY SCENES IN SCUTH.

Yes, I have been thrilled by these three days—thrilled in the knowledge not only of practical accomplishment but thrilled also in the belief—the deep-seated belief on my part—that the people of this nation understand what we are trying to do, are cooperating with what we are trying to do and have made up their minds that we are going to do it.

And so, saying "good bye" to you for a short time—because I am coming back—I ask of you, throughout the length and breadth of the Tennessee valley and those areas which form an economic portion of that valley—I ask you all to remember that the responsibility for success lies very largely with vou—confident that you are going to give to the nation an example which will be a benefit not only to yourselves but to the whole one hundred and thirty millions of Americans in every part of the land.

ROOSEVELT SPEAKS

TO BIRMINGHAM CROWD BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 18 .-(AP)—The text of the remarks by President Roosevelt in his brief train stop today at Birmingham follows:

My visit through the Tennessee valley region would be incomplete without a stop in Birmingham, brief as that visit must be at this time. I remember with great pleasure another visit, necessarily brief, in January, 1933, when as president-elect I had acquired some first-hand knowledge of the problems of Tennessee and northern Alabama.

I speak of Birmingham as being speak of Birmingham as being in the Tennessee region because, while I appreciate that you are located south of the Tennessee watershed, there are many economic and social relationships between this city and the great territory which lies north of you.

CITY'S PROBLEMS ARE APPRECIATED.

I know something also of the many difficulties under which you have been laboring in recent years. I well understand the problem of the heavy industries, such as iron, steel and coal—industries upon which you so largely depend. They are matters of the keenest concern to the whole administration.

administration.

The great program of public works.

The great program of public works. now in full swing calls for vast quantities of the iron and steel and other capital goods which this area produces.

Definite improvement has already made its appearance as it has in the coal industry. The success of the NRA code appears not only in the more orderly mining of coal but also in the more steady improvement and the bigger pay cavelops of the thou-sands of miners who were in sore straits before the government acted.

But, of course, for you who live in the economic area of the Tennessee valley, the Tennessee Valley Authorvalley, the Tennessee Valley Authority must continue to receive your growing interest as it receives the growing interest and approval of so many other communities. The whole project can succeed only if it has the wholehearted support and co-operation of the people of the area. I particularly bespeak the people of Birmingham an active co-operation with the Tennessee Valley Authority.

I am aware, of course, that a few of your citizenry are leaving no stone unturned to block and harrass and to delay this great national program. I am confident, however, that these obstructionists, few in number in comparison with the whole population deavet with the whole population.

these obstructionists, few in number in comparison with the whole population, do not reflect the views of the overwhelming majority of the people of Birmingham or the other cities where they reside. I know, too, that the overwhelming majority of your businessmen, big and little, are in hearty accord with the great undertaking of regional planning now being carried forward. They and you stand shoulder to shoulder with TVA, eager to carry forward the development of this region in which Birmingham plays so important a part. It is good to be with you again and I am looking forward to a happy few weeks in my other home in the southland.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greates Card Analyist.

An Unorthodox Pass.

The best players do not always make the technically correct bids or passes every time it is their turn. However, every time they do make an unusual bid or an unusual pass they do so because a situation has been created which has put them in a position from which they know they position from which they know they will be able to obtain a better than average result by adopting an uncon-ventional plan of campaign. Peculiar part-score situations, when coupled with some knowledge of the oppo-nents' strong points or weaknesses often brings big swings.

On the hand below the South player, with a very strong holding, made a most unusual pass on the second round of the bidding, and as a result finally secured a very fine result for his team.

-A doubtful and overly-aggressive overcall—justifiable only in view of the part-score situation.

of the part-score situation.

North, with no particularly good bid available to him over one notrump, decides to bide his time and try to find out just where the strength is. The part-score situation makes the pass perfectly safe.

strength is. The part-score situation makes the pass perfectly safe.

4—East's bid is not so much based on strength as it is based on fear of a notrump contract in view of East's 5-4-3-1 distribution. In addition, East, with 30 on score, does wish to give his partner one chance.

5—A brilliant pass. South knew West to be a very aggressive player and he knew also that West would be particularly aggressive since East, his partner, was known to be quite conservative. South passed with the almost absolute certainty that West, with a part-score of 30, would bid two notrump, particularly if South himself created the impression of comparaticy lying back and preparing a trap.

6—According to schedule.

7—North of course must show signs of life. The only think he can do to show his partner that he has considerable strength is to double the opposing game contract.

South of course is reasonably certain that East and West's two notrump contract will be defeated. However, he fears that the set will not be particularly big if West has two heart stoppers and if the strength on which North's double is based is not in diamonds, but in clubs or spades. South knows on his partner's double that there must be at least one or two hearts in the North hand and he accordingil decides not to accept the penalty but to try for a game, which he is certain will be a laydown. In addition, South knows that West will read the three-heart bid as a rescue of a doubtful double and accordingly will double three hearts for penalties, feeling that South's bid was made from weakness and not from strength.

10—South is not content with a slight victory. He wishes to turn it into a complete rout.

11—I am sure that West at this point began to suspect that he had been tricked—even before the play started. However, there was no place West could run to. He had to just grin and bear it.

It is easily seen that three-odd cannot be beaten by any defense. Actually West opened the diamond ten and South was able to make four without any great difficulty. As a matter of fact, correct play by South would enable him to make four-odd even against a club opening. He could discard his losing spade on a diamond against a club opening. He could distant his losing spade on a diamond and could restrict his losses in the heart suit to one by leading the Jack through. Thus only one club, one diamond and one heart trick would be lost. At any rate South, by his strategic choice of bids or perhaps I should say passes, instead of scoring a mere 90 or 120 points plus the value of a game, actually scored the game plus 360 below the line and 200 above.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

by ROY VICKERS

Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Major Ralph Stornack, of apparent position and wealth, is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Briarley, who is serving a 20-year sentence for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Colin was alone at the table with the Canadian when the lights went out and he was struck in the throat by a table knife. Chief witness against Colin was Major Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Rhoda met Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his warder. He plots Colin's escape by taking Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Nobody looks closely at prisoners, he explains, and warders are frequently changed. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Stornack. They spend a brief honeymoon in Wales. Then Colin returns to prison. Rhoda returns home sind eligns a lapse of memory. Her mother besieges her to marry Stornack, who is still willing. He and his confederates know she has inherited the fortune of a Canadian relative. The Canadian solicitor had come to London to tell her of it. Rhoda meets Jack Caermaen. Stornack follows. Later he calls on Caermaen and they quarrel. Jack suspects Stornack of the crime for which Colin was convicted. Rhoda tells her mother that she is going to have a baby. She leaves home and stays with friends of Caermaen's in London, intending to take a business course. solitor's bort. Shook are storage. low creature who gave her the honor that was due to her honorable state.

"There, now, I haven't upset you, have I?"

"No, you havn't. It's silly of me, but—you made me happy. It was so nice to hear you say it was good news. It is good news."

This young woman, the wife of an es-soldier servant, had welcomed her back to human society.

"Everybody who knows has been so beastly about it. Even the underhousemaid insulted me—which was really the final straw that made me rush away. Of course, it was my fault! But—O, I'm so glad to be here!" In her dress was a little jeweled brooch that an uncle had given her on her twenty-first birthday. She ripped it off. "Please let me!" she said, and pinned it in the other woman's blouse.

Mrs. Rawlings did not make any silly protest about accepting it.

"I think I know how you feel—and I'll keep this always," she said with feeling. "Now I'm going to make you a cup of tea."

In the evening Alf came home. He was a cheerful Cockney who treated her with an almost embarrassing respect that was based on the intense admiration and affection he had for Jack Caermaen.

The next day was a busy one. Jack Caermaen had given her the name of a training college, and Mrs. Rawlings told her how to get there by tube and bus.

He was, she thought, an extraordinary type to meet in an apparently good class shop. It had not occurred to her that even in London it was unusual for a respectable woman to go by herself to buy a wedding ring. There were, she was to discover, many pitfalls for a married woman who cannot produce her husband.

Eventually he fitted her with a 22-carat ring, the price of which made a large hole in her spare cash. But in future she intended to be very economical. To economize on the ring would have seemed a slight to Colin.

that people of his time used glass globes filled with water as burning glasses. This was a case of fire com-ing through water. THE BURNING GLASS.

There are many ways to start a fire without matches. Striking steel on flint to produce sparks which will ignite tinder is one method. A half-dozen or more ways of rubbing wood on wood to obtain a fire have been used by savage tribes. The friction of rubbing a gasoline-soaked cloth may start a sudden and dangerous blaze. The "burning mirror" serves the same purpose as the burning glass. It reflects and bends sun rays so that Berniere's Burning Glass.

Perhaps most strange of all is the report of explorers in the far north starting fires with pieces of ice, curred to serve as lenses. The heat is not intense as light passes through a lens; but when the rays are made to focus, they have the power of hurning. Berniere, a Frenchman, who lived Berniere, a Frenchman, who lived two centuries ago, built a burning glass of great size, and claimed that he was able to use it for melting metal. Another huge burning glass was made by an English lens-grinder, for the British government to send to China as a gift to the emporor.

The burning glass is just one of many uses for lenses. They are also placed in cameras, telescopes and mineral statements.

Try Liquid Powder for Your Slight Complexion Defects

So often even the most careful of us find that when we are about to go to a party, everything seems according to Hoyle except for a tiny spot here and there on the face or neck. Sometimes an acid condition of the stomesh will neck. Sometimes an acid condition of the stomach will cause these small blotches and they are aggravating. Sometimes they are caused by nervousness, so physicians tell me, and while they do not come through the skin, the sight of a red spot under the skin is certainly not attractive.

I have discovered that you can fool these pests by using a good liquid powder. Don't do this if you have a sore spot on your face. This, mind you, only for brown spots, or red

Georgia Products Dinner Date Is Set for Thursday, November 22

A prominent social event scheduled for this week is the Georgia products dinner to be given by Joseph Habersham Chapter, D. A. R., on Thursday evening, November 22, at 6 o'clock at Habersham hall, 270 Fifteenth street, N. E. These Georgia products dinners were inaugurated by the late Mrs. William Lawson Peel, founder of the Joseph Habersham Chapter, over 20 years ago, and it is an established custom to give one of these dinners each year in November. The idea has steadily grown and many organizations have followed this plan, thus bringing before the public the wisdom of using Georgia products. The following menu will be served: Tomato cocktail, turkey with oyster dressing, candied yams, peas, cole slaw. "May Haw" jelly, buttered rolls, coffee, fruit cake with lemon sauce, mints and nuts.

After dinner, cards will be enjoyed by those wishing to play. There will be no extra charge for this feature but guests are requested to bring cards and furnish pencils.

Seated at the honor table will be Mrs. C. J. Sheehan, regent; Mrs. B. C. Kistner second vice regent; Mrs. B. C. Walter Scott Askew, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. D. Tebo, registrar; Mrs. Fredric Rice, chairman of the dinner; and the following honor guests: Mrs. Franklin Brown Chase, Flemming.

Alabama, Tulane and L. S. U. Unbeaten in Conference

To Reach Nation's Best Team, Write, Wire or Call Tuscaloosa, Ala.

A night's sleep and several cups of black coffee have failed to dispel the idea established on Saturday afternoon at Grant

The best team since the 1917 Georgia Tech Tornado may be reached by mail, telegraph or telephone at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

It was not so much the score which they ran up against Georgia Tech, with substitutes playing perhaps a third of the game, but the manner in which they did it. The society editors often speak of the charming insouciance of some young deb who captivates the receptions. The Crimson eleven, in scoring 40 points, was like that; calm, unhurried, unflustered, unworried, even slightly deliberate—but charming.

Georgia Tech's 1934 team, the cold, unfeeling records show, happens to be the most vulnerable eleven in the Southeastern conference.

The Jackets have permitted 167 points to be scored against them. Only Sewanee has scored fewer points, 40 to Georgia Tech's 44.

Yet the Jackets had a line Saturday which was playing good football. And a young man named Hoot Gibson and another named Shorty Roberts were at least a couple of Yellow Jackets with some sting in them. As pointed out in the Sabbath story of the game, the Jackets played their best football and took a very bad beating which might easily have been more had Mr. Frank Thomas turned on the heat, so to speak.

Alabama's football team would, I am convinced, be smarter, faster and pass more skillfully and successfully than Minnesota. In fact, I think the Alabama outfit would defeat the Minnesotans. I speak with confidence. There is no method by which this statement can be disproved. Unfortunately the two teams do not meet.

And if Tennessee was able to run the Commodore ends on last Saturday then the boys had best take out cyclone insurance to cover the game of Thanksgiving Day at Birmingham.

And the pass attack of Howell to Hutson-well, I think it is done with mirrors. Certainly no Tech player was ever near Hutson on the defense.

THE SCORE IS THE THING.

Mr. Frank Thomas and his football team do not go in for impressive yardage or long and desperate forays.

They maneuver the rival team with something of a boxer's skill; feint the team out of position and then let fly with a run, a line smash or a pass. Because the Crimson eleven has all the weapons in the arsenal.

This was illustrated in the game with Tech. The Tech line was wound up like an eight-day clock and playing good, hard

This was illustrated in the game with 1 constant was wound up like an eight-day clock and playing good, hard football. Alabama, almost casually, began to throw passes and to mix in enough running to maneuver the opening for another pass.

An apt illustration of Alabama methods was the play leading to the fourth touchdown. After one play from the Tech 35, Alabama was penalized 15 yards on the second down and 23 to go, Demyanovich having made two on the first play.

Alabama scored in seven plays. Employed in that march were an end run for 10 yards, a pass for 17, an end-around for 6 and another end-around, employing Bryant where Hutson had carried the ball the previous play, got a first down at the Tech 6. Two line plunges followed and Riley Smith then went over to score on a quarterback sneak.

The Southeastern won the "rubber" game in the season's series with the Southern conference as Georgia over, and the second half to win, 27 to 0.

V. P. I.'s Gobblers subdued a stubborn Virginia eleven, 19 to 6: South Carolina eked out a 2-0 decision over Furman and Clemson's powerful Tigers rolled over Mercer's Bears, 32 to 0, to atone for last year's defeat.

MARYLAND PREPARES.

While nine Southern conference feams prepare for their Thanksgiving Day finale, Maryland's Old Liners will buckle down to hard work to morrow in preparation for Saturday's game with a strong Georgetown even with Johns Hopkins should be easier. Eight of the conference teams will fight among themselves with Washington and Lee's meeting with South in the second half to win, 27 to 0.

V. P. I.'s Gobblers subdued a stubborn Virginia eleven, 19 to 6: South Carolina eked out a 2-0 decision over Furman and Clemson's powerful Tigers rolled over Mercer's Bears, 32 to 0, to atone for last year's defeat.

MARYLAND PREPARES.

While nine Southern conference teams will be a sign of the conference teams will be a sign of the conference teams will gift the conference teams will fight among themselves with Washington and Lee's meeting with South

There is just about all of football in those seven plays, end runs, line plunges, quarterback sneaks, passes and end-arounds.

Alabama works to create a scoring opportunity. And then grabs it with both hands, so to speak, and doesn't relinquish until the opportunity says, "Uncle." Or maybe "Touchdown" is and V. P. I. will clash at Roanoke in their colorful rivalry, and V. P. I. will clash at Roanoke in their annual military bettle more appropriate.

THEY ALL GET GOOD FOR TECH.

All Tech's foes, no matter how badly crippled, seem to regain all lost players, recover from injuries and reach a new high when Tech bobs up on the card.

Florida, for instance, has been roaming in the valley of the football shadows all season. Against Georgia two weeks ago Florida begin to look better although losing by two touchdowns.

Last Saturday Florida came from behind to beat Auburn, the team which conquered Tech by two touchdowns the week Florida now seems to be reaching something ap-proximating her expected form. Have you a schedule handy? Look at the date of November 24. Georgia Tech plays Florida.

TECH'S LINEUP ENDURES.

It is most incongruous, but the fact remains that Georgia Tech played better football losing 40 to 0 to Alabama than in beating Clemson, 12 and 6, or in losing, 18 to 6, to Auburn.

Coach Alexander said Sunday he was set with the lineup which played on Saturday against Alabama. It is the first time this season the Jackets have come through with a lineup which could be sent back in there the next week. There were no injuries.

This is an important factor in any game, maintaining the Wins 'Dog Fight.' same lineup. It begins to play and think as a team only after playing together as a unit.

MR. EARLE NEALE'S JOB.

When Yale signed her hodge-podge coaching staff last winter, there were some Yale men who felt hurt at the signing of Earle (Greasy) Neale. They were hurt that anyone with Mr. Neale's nickname should be signed at Yale more than at any fear he might lack in ability.

But Earle Neale, who is an old pro ball player and a football coach who has been here and there, seems to have taught the Yales how to throw and catch a football and also how to go places with one. Something they didn't know before.

He is credited with having made a star of Jerry Roscoe, the Yale quarterback, who threw the pass to Kelly for the touchdown which beat Princeton on Saturday. Roscoe was just a nice boy until Neale came along.

I think it was Mr. Alonzo Stagg, who expressed the hurt, when he said, last winter, "Who is this person named Greasy who is coaching at Yale?"

Mr. Neale has done his job and proved the contention that what Yale needed was a coach who had been out of New Haven and knew what was going on in other places. The papers have been kind and refer to him as Mr. Earle Neale and never as Greasy Neale, a nickname which Mr. Neale never objected to, by the way. And so all is well under the elms at New Ha-The Big Three championship is at hand. Mr. Neale is forgiven.

Generals Left as Only Unbeaten Eleven in Circuit.

By Joseph E. Nettles.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 18.—(P)—
North Carolina's Tarheels gloated today over their first victory over Duke since 1929, a well-earned 7-to-0 triumph, but Washington & Lee's Generals apparently were the chief beneficiary in the Southern conference championship race.

When Dick Buck took Don Jackson's short pass behind the goal line for the touchdown that whipped the Blue Devils, Washington & Lee became the only team in the circuit with a perfect record.

The Generals, favored by a schedule that included none of the old North State's three powerful teams, have squeezed through without a defeat or lie and if they can get by sophomore guard who a few Saturdays ago kicked the perfect placement after N. C. State's touchdown that gave the Wolfpack a 7-7 tie with the Tarheels and placed the only blemish on North Carolina's Southern conference slate. Although they didn't score until the fourth period, the Tarheels

a powerful Duke eleven.

After two lines had battled furiously for almost three quarters, with punts frequent, North Carolina's passing attack settled the issue. Buck sounded the warning when he took Jackson's pass late in the third period and raced 51 yards to Duke's 9-yard stripe. A line play failed to gain as the period ended and Jackson lost three vards on the first play of the fourth quarter. Then Buck slipped behind the Duke line and caught Jackson's pass for the only touchdown of the game. Babe Daniels, Carolina guard, kicked the extra point from placement.

TIDE ENHANCES AND BOWL GAME

Georgia Meets Auburn and Tech Plays Florida This Week.

By Kenneth Gregory,

Associated Press Sports Writer. Continuing their victorious assaults, Alabama, Tulane and Louisiana State came out of the latest football wars with flying colors and remained undefeated in the Southeastern conference as the annual gridiron campaign moves into the last round.

The Crimson Tide, unbeaten and untied, further enhanced its claim for national recognition and its chances for consideration as a participant in the Rose bowl classic by rolling over Georgia Tech, 40 to 0. It was the eighth consecutive triumph for Alabama, which has stretched its total points to 253 to 32 for opponents.

Tulane kept pace with Frank Thomas' Red Elephants to leave the leadership of the conference deadlocked at six victories each by romping to a 20-to-7 score over Kentucky's Wildcats. The L. S. U. Tigers whipped Mississippi, 14 to 0, for their fourth

On Thanksgiving Day the Alabama eleven clashes with Vanderbilt at Birmingham in its final game. Although the Commodores, beaten Saturday by Tennessee, 13 to 6, the same score by which the Tide conquered the Volunters, earlier in the season, are likely to offer stubborn resistance, Alabama will be favored to triumph.

The Green Wave engaged the University of the South from Sewanee at New Orleans this Saturday and is expected to ring up its seventh conference victory with little trouble. Louisians State gets a long rest before its anxiously awaited battle with Tulane at Baton Rouge on December 1.

Only two other Southeastern contests are scheduled for this week. Auburn, which was upset 14 to 7 by Florida, meets Georgia, 27-to-0 conqueror of North Carolina State, in an annual battle at Columbus. It was the first Southeastern triumph for the 'Gators, who play Georgia Tech at Gainesville.

Minnesota, by something approaching popular acclamation, remains the nation's No. 1 college football team. Championship dreams were rudely shattered yesterday for four of the major teams entering Saturday's fray with spotless records. Yale's eleven "iron men;" playing the entire game without a single substitution, achieved the most startling enstern upset in years by overthrowing Princeton 7 o O, thereby ending a 15-game winning streak for the Tigers. Syracuse, unable to capitalize its superior power, had its Rose Bowl hopes blasted by Colgate's seventh straight victory over the Orange forces, 13 to 3. The public works administration today added 1-p a $370,381 profit on bond resules and accepted it as a sign of "resule financing of construction for public purposes."

The profit was made on $19,599,142 of bonds bought to help finance non-federal PWA projects. Most of it came from the disposal by the Reconstruction Corporation of 69 issues of municipal bonds at $14,788,300 for a profit of $373,166. Five issues previously had been sold for $903,000 at a premium of $11,795, but the profit was reduced by a $11,280 loss on three railroad issues of $3,604,000 on which interest was waived for the first year.

Cracker Bosses Off For Meeting Tonight

Atlanta's delegation to the National Association baseball meeting at Louisville, namely, Vice President Earl Mann and Manager Eddie Moore, will leave the city tonight to represent the Crackers at the minor league pow-wow.

Mann and Moore were vested with full authority to make deals which will put the Crackers in the 1935 race and they were fairly hopeful of landing a hard-hitting second baseman and driving a deal for at least one outfielder.

Regarding the cash to be paid for these players, all that Mann would say was that:

"We're through being suckers for other clubs. We're going to get the men we need without paying an outrageous price for them."

Spencer Abbott, manager and acting president of the club last year, will attend the meeting but will not have any voice in the Atlanta dealings. Abbott, as his new appointment of "honorary vice president" implies, is merely a figure-head in the new set-up and, chances are, will not even be in Atlanta the forthcoming summer.

Declaring that every autoist must realize that brakes, steering, lights and running gear should be in good working order if serious accidents are to be avoided. John A. Harris, president of the Harris Rim and Wheel Company, Saturday emphasized that "our very lives are daily placed in absolute dependence upon these vital operating parts of our automobile."

Harris further stressed that travel at high speeds demand that we know the condition of our brakes—know that we can stop suddenly and safely. "High speed and congested traffic likewise demand an ease and assurance of steering, if one is to avoid ever-impending crashes," he said. "Blinding headlights cause many unfortunate mishaps, yet you and I are likely unaware of the condition of our lamps. Unwittingly, we may have been the cause of a serious accident."

Mr. Harris urges the motoring public to drive their car immediately to his place of business, located at 404-406 West Peachtree street, and have their staff of experts show them the exact condition of their brakes, steering and lights, gratis.

Shores, to explain the program to them.

After Mr. Shores appeared before, the grand jury, they unanimously voted to include in their presentments a recommendation that the courty floor in a plant covering over an acre and a half. This permits the work to be done in a truly daylight plant. Efficiency is thereby increased and high quality more easily maintained.

In addition to the plant the company operates a modern and up-to-date store in the downtown section, 116 Edgewood avenue, for stationery and office equipment. This store carries not only many products of the manufacturing plant, but complete stocks of standard office supplies of all kinds.

board of commissioners inaugurate a county-wide terracing program for walton county. Yancey Brothers, Inc., Caterpillar dealers of 634 Whitehalt street, Atlanta, demonstrated a "Caterpillar" No. 2 terracer to the county on September 20. Goodloe H. Yancey is president of the company and B. Earle Yancey is vice president and secretary. At the demonstration, sufficient acreage was signed up to warrant the purchase of the outfit.

Placing a foot upon the lion's yellow body, the stranger raised his face to the sky and voiced a wild, weird cry that sent cold shivers down the spines of the Americans. Then, without a glance at the two he had saved, he swung to a branch, and disappeared in the foliage.

The two spectators had seen his face clearly for the first time just before he vanished. Orman paled beneath his tan as he asked with shaking voice: "Did you see what I saw, Bill?" West replied uneasily: "I only know what I thought I what I thought I saw, but-I couldn't have seen it."

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Orman persisted: "Do you believe in ghosts, Bill? You know as well as I do that that couldn't have been Obroski; so it must have been his ghost."
"But we never knew for sure that Obroski was dead." A strenge light came into Orman's eyes: "We know now!"

Six pairs of eager young hands dug into the soft clay of the alley and for a few minutes there was little said. A pile of mud balls grew. In a short time there were about 10 or 1 2 apiece. This was considered a large enough supply of "hand grenades" to capture the enemy. With a neat stack of them beside each soldier the army stood at attention, eyes sparkling, awaiting the command of the two "generals." "Over the top," the boys cried in

The air became thick with flying muddy missiles, all aimed at one little old dilapidated house, set far back on its lot, whose rear wall, being a win-

Suddenly a witchlike figure was before us, seemingly out of nowhere. The our "bomb." we stole silently to the very abruptness of her appearance was like a dash of cold water on our spirits. She was tiny and withered, scarcely bigger than ourselves. Yet the rapid and unintelligible stream of English and German that poured from her lips could not have frightened us more had she been one of the giants from the neck. Frepared with our words of the stream of the mount way of the "spy headquarters." "I think we better wait till it gets darker." Joe decided. "We don't want those tough kids to see us."

Soon it was deemed dark enough. We started stealthily through the courtway. Around in front at last, we stood in an awed, bewildered group. had she been one of the giants from out of our fairy tales. All we under-stood of the tirade was her disgusted "Ach! Bad kinder!" as she turned and numped back into the "courtway" of the little house.

For a time we were struck dumb.

A cold shiver went through us all. A spy, real honest-to goodness German right here behind our own back We thrilled to the possibilities yards! We thrilled to the possibilities of it.

"I betcha I know what," Joe exclaimed, excitedly, "I betcha she's a man in disguise, like in that movie last week. And—and she's—he's the leader of a nest of German spies!"

"Yes, and the old house is headquarters. I always did think it was sorta mysterious lockin'." Greg chimed in, not to be outdone by Joe.

We all admitted that although we had never mentioned it before we had always been suspicious of that house. For one thing, none of us had ever always been suspicious of that house.
For one thing, none of us had ever seen the front of it. (The kids living on that side of the alley were tough.
We didn't dare go around in front.
We talked, horrified. Something just had to be done. Solemnly we laid

We looked at each other with wide, frightened eyes.

"Gee!" Noreen whispered, coming out of the daze. "She talks German!"

Little Frances moved closer to her brother Greg. "D—do you think we had better tell the police?"

The tears started to her eyes as Joe tauntingly called her a "scardy cat."

"Well, m—maybe sne's a German spy," she half-sobbed back at him.
